E39 2005 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)63038897 Subject: Industrial hygiene -- United States. Excerpt: . . ly, OSHA has already recognized the need for compliance assistance, and Secretary Chao, in my opinion, is to be commended for a vision and leadership in this regard. The cooperative strategies that have been implemented in the past 5 years, we are beginning to see positive results, and result is all that really counts, the bottom line far fewer people or more people being made safe and healthy by what were trying to do. Thats the whole point of all of this. In March 2004, the Government Accountability Office, GAO, evaluated these results in a study of voluntary compliance and found that safety improvements were being made by companies involved in OSHAs compliance programs, programs that have contributed to the safest workforce in our nations modern history. Indeed, one of the key recommendations from GAO during the course of its study was to urge Congress to gather more data on the utility of the voluntary compliance programs. It is my hope that we can begin that process today, through the holding of this hearing. During todays proceedings we will also hear about voluntary efforts employers are making to work with private consultants and industrial safety specialists to actually foster a safer workplace. This is an important story that needs to be told. After all, it is a simple fact that OSHA will never have the resources to visit every American workplace to ensure compliance. We can wish for that until the cows come home. This government will never have enough inspectors to go into every small business in this country. Once we recognize that, then we have...
